Welcome to English 204C!

Our classroom is a collaborative learning community. We each bring to this classroom a unique and valuable set of life experiences. We can learn from one another and in the process discover who we are… who we are still becoming. In order for us to take advantage of this exciting opportunity to discover, learn, and evolve, we must create an environment in which we respect, celebrate, and support our differences.

“Why do writers write? Because it isn’t there.” Thomas Berger
CATALOG DESCRIPTION

English 204C Introduction to Creative Writing (Screenwriting) introduces students to the basic practices and principles of screenwriting.

Prerequisite: Grade of “C” or better ENG 100 or consent of instructor.

Recommended course preparation: Students should possess a strong foundational knowledge of grammar, word usage, and punctuation. Additionally, students must be able to accept constructive criticism from peers and the instructor.

This course satisfies the following graduation requirement: DA

REQUIRED TEXTS AND WRITING TOOLS

- Johnson, Claudia Hunter: Crafting Short Screenplays that Connect (CSSTC)
  www.focalpress.com/cw/johnson (link to short films from CSSTC)
- Pressfield, Steven; The War of Art
- Additional scripts and readings provided as resources during the semester
- Writers journal—a composition book or journal used exclusively for 204C
- Pens & highlighters (different color inks)
- Screenwriting software: Google or Celtx (both free); Movie Magic, Final Draft, etc.
  *Students have used both Celtx and Google and found both worked well.

RECOMMENDED BASIC SKILL LEVEL AND TIME COMMITMENT

Ability to: arrive in class on time and prepared for discussions and workshops; carefully read texts and view films; write papers that contain and follow a clear thesis statement (or point).

Expect to dedicate two to three hours of study time per class to: read and analyze texts; view and analyze films; write screenplays and essays; and complete other assignments.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

The student learning outcomes for English 204C are to:

1. Create original short screenplays that include screenwriting format, devices, and conventions.
2. Propose and employ feedback in the writing workshop model.
3. Enter screenplays for local and/or national contests and/or production.
COURSE CONTENT, TASKS, GRADING, AND ASSESSMENT

This course will focus on screenwriting techniques, character development, dialogue, story structure, plot strategies, theme, genre, applicable terminology, and the experience of the writing and rewriting process. Activities include screenwriting, viewing and analyzing short films, in-class writing assignments, reading essays, reading and critiquing short screenplays, and participating in writing workshops.

You are responsible for your final grade. It will be based on: the quality and timely completion of assignments, class participation, and insightful work. I reserve the option of modifying assignments and due dates to benefit and support the learning needs of our class community.

A – 450+; B – 400-449; C – 350-399; D – 300-349; F – 299 and below
An “N” grade indicates that the student has worked conscientiously, attended regularly, finished all work, fulfilled course responsibilities, and has made measurable progress. However, either the student has not achieved the minimal student learning objectives and is not yet prepared to succeed at the next level, or the student has made consistent progress in the class but is unable to complete the class due to extenuating circumstances, such as major health, personal or family emergencies.

HALLMARKS OF WRITING INTENSIVE COURSE

1 The course uses writing to promote the learning of course materials. Instructors assign formal and informal writing, both in class and out, to increase students' understanding of course material as well as to improve writing skills.

2 The course provides interaction between teacher and students while students do assigned writing. Individual conferences are mandatory for WI courses at WCC.

3 Writing contributes significantly to each student's course grade. Writing assignments must make up at least 40% of each student's course grade.

4 The course requires students to do a substantial amount of writing—a minimum of 4000 words, or about 16 pages. Depending on the course content, students may write analytic essays, critical reviews, journals, lab reports, research reports, or reaction papers, etc. In-class exams and drafts are not counted toward the 4000-word minimum.

5 To allow for meaningful professor-student interaction on each student's writing, the class is restricted to 20 students.
STUDENT CONDUCT

Mutual respect – at all times.

To minimize distractions, please turn off and put away your cell phones and other electronic devices. Also, please no eating or drinking in class.

Attendance is mandatory. If you do miss a class, it is YOUR responsibility to contact your instructor and to check in with your class buddies to find out what you missed and what you need to do for the next class. You will lose 10 points for every absence. Class will begin promptly. Late arrivals disrupt the class, so please be on time. Three late arrivals equal one absence. A total of seven or more absences/late days will result in failure to pass the course.

Assignments. The world of screenwriting can be both exciting and daunting. Professional writers provide one another with feedback in order to produce the strongest work possible. We will be taking advantage of our class writers and workshopping our assignments. For this reason (and to avoid the usual procrastination writers face), we have strict deadlines for all work. A completed assignment will decrease in value by 10% of its initial point total for each day it is late. A 100-point assignment, for example, will be worth 90 points on the first late day, 80 points on the second late day, and so on. If you are running into challenges, see me and we’ll work together on a strategy of success for you.

Plagiarism: All writing must be your own. If in doubt, see me prior to turning in your work.

Content Warning A college education provides you with a valuable opportunity to explore the world around you in new ways, broadening your life experiences. Literature, film studies and creative writing, in particular, reflect the human condition in all its complexity and sometimes contain content (profanity, violence, sexuality, etc.) that may offend you. If you would prefer not to expose yourself to these issues through readings, films, class discussions, and workshops then this may not be the class for you.

WCC RESOURCES
